

iCore360[®] Report Library

Automated Online Report Management

Simplify Your Banks Information Management With Report Library

Take your bank to the next level in automated system report management with the innovative iCore360[®] Report Library, part of an integrated approach to simplify the management of your key information.

Easy and Powerful

A built-in feature of iCore360[®], the Report Library is intuitive and easy to use. Accessed directly from the menu or toolbar, you never have to leave iCore360[®] to access and manage your system reports. But the Library is more than just easy, it delivers powerful automation and management capabilities customized to your needs.

For example, the Library continuously monitors iCore360[®] to add new reports as they are generated. It then automatically assigns definitions to each one, indexes them by processing date, application and definition, and displays the most recent set of reports for you to view. The Library even manages report formats for DCI Teller[™], InfoSight[™], Acrobat PDF, and more.

You can also designate report “favorites” that are automatically generated while you are away, and either printed or delivered to your PC to be waiting for you when you arrive.

Search and Conquer

Using the Report Library could not be easier or more flexible. Opening reports takes just a click. Searching for specific information is just as easy, and more impressive. Multiple options help you find just the report or detail you need using any combination of free-form criteria such as name, type, description, date range, branch, application, dollar amount, etc. The Library can even search for information in multiple reports at the same time, and show you every instance of the search criteria contained in each report. And using your report data in other documents is as simple as copy and paste.

Because the Library is a feature function of iCore360[®], it is simultaneously accessible by any authorized network user at the bank. Plus, the Library allows group online reviews, including sign-off/approvals and tracking.

Core technology you can depend on . . . a relationship you can trust.

Security settings are also flexible. Administrators can authorize or deny user access by user, report type or even application.

And in the unlikely event of system downtime, backup CDs can be used with full functionality in any PC with a CD drive – no network connection required.

Nimble and intuitive, the Report Library feature gives you so many easy ways to find and use your report data, once you try it, you'll seriously wonder how you ever got along without it.

Other ordinary archival utilities simply cannot offer the same features, flexibility and value of the iCore360® Report Library.

The Report Library is next generation technology that's less expensive, easier to use, more capable and more reliable than any other solution. And it's only available from DCI.
